Elder Care

Virtual Companion

For the independent aging
 "It's like a Virtual Attendant" Marcie Allie

Elder Care Monitor is not an emergency alarm but a communication tool to help you stay independent. We will enable your home to automatically monitor your well being and reassure your family of events with an email or a cell phone text.

Activities and Events can include rising in the morning, taking your meds, using the fridge, or whether you are active & moving about.

We can even have your Medicine cabinet on a schedule to help remind you with a pleasant local chime, a voice, or flash a light.

PEACE OF MIND

Your home will monitor your Activities of Daily Living (ADL)

A great tool for independent living

The Elder Monitor is only a small part of what can be done through this expandable & easy to install technology.

A Virtual assistant to help elders and their caregivers manage activities of daily living (ADLs) so that a seniors' independence is compromised as little as possible.

How can we deliver quality care to a rapidly growing population of older adults? We believe the solution must include an emphasis on prevention rather than treatment:

A shift in the focus of care from expensive clinical settings to the home.

A shift of some responsibility for care from formal providers to individuals and their family and friends. This solution can be enabled by a range of proactive technologies in the digital home.

These digital home technologies have the potential to improve health while enabling their seniors to "age in place," maintaining their independence and deferring more costly institutional care as long as possible.

Control 4

This is all done with Control 4 (Featured on The Oprah Show) the latest in Home Automation Technology

Additionally security, lighting, comfort and the TV can all be simplified with one remote

Certainly not only an elder could use that !

Lower installation costs with wireless technology
